

Henning Faas
Publicity Officer
International Radio Sailing Association
Email
info@radiosailing.org
www.radiosailing.org

IRSA Press Release

New Logo and Web Site

Date: 2015-03-10

IRSA is the worldwide radio sailing organization as an Affiliated Member of ISAF, the International Sailing Federation. IRSA is dedicated to the enhancement of both current and emerging world radio sailing classes through the promotion and development of consistent class rules, measurement methods, radio yachting racing rules, and advice in running major racing events.

Contemporary design, simple structure, and user-friendly navigation – these are the features of the International Radio Sailing Associations new look website – www.radiosailing.org.

Content has been updated. For example, a focal point of the homepage is a sliding image to click on, giving more information on "What is radio sailing". New pages give information about the IRSA International Classes and upcoming worldwide events. Along with new pages with detailed member information there is a comprehensive section with the detailed history of championships in all International classes. Why not give it a try? Just three clicks of the mouse – and you can access any of the pages.

By the end of 2014, IRSA founded new Technical and Racing Committees which have started their work on revising class rules and racing rules. With the new website they will inform you about the ongoing processes and the background discussion. Read the Chairmen’s blogs on the new website about their work and see the IRSA business list on the plans for the future.

About the International Radio Sailing Association

IRSA is the worldwide radio sailing organization as an Affiliated Member of ISAF. IRSA is dedicated to the enhancement of both current and emerging world radio sailing classes through the promotion and development of consistent class rules, measurement methods, radio yachting racing rules, and advice in running major racing events.